Dear Parents, Guardians and Carers,

Relationships and Behaviour Policy

We are currently reviewing our school's Relationships and Behaviour Policy and want to make sure it truly reflects the needs, hopes and aspirations of our whole community. As always, our work is guided by our school vision: Love of Learning, Love of Life, Love of One Another.

Positive relationships are very important to us at Ashlands. We try to show love, honesty and trust in everything we do. We encourage children to care for each other, make good choices and take pride in their school and the world around them. We hope the values they learn here—both Christian and British—stay with them throughout their lives.

We know that children learn best when they feel safe, valued and motivated. This means supporting not only their academic progress but also their emotional, social and personal development. As a church school, we aim to provide a kind and nurturing environment where every child can flourish—guided by Christian teaching and inspired by the message from John 10:10: to “live life in all its fullness.”

Our Relationships and Behaviour Policy helps us create this caring atmosphere and is shaped by the Quantock Education Trust's Behaviour and Ethos Policy. Our Local Governing Body fully supports this work. Together, we aim to build a school where positive behaviour is encouraged, children develop strong values, and everyone feels respected and included.

As part of this review, we are asking all members of our school community—including parents, carers, pupils, staff and the Local Governing Committee—to share their views. We would be very grateful if you could tell us what you believe the aims of our Behaviour Policy should be by completing our short survey. Your ideas will help us shape a policy that reflects our shared values and ensures every child feels safe, supported and able to flourish.

Please click on the link to share your views. The survey will close on Tuesday 17th March.
